

As the Gyro market increases to grow so does the demand for professional instruction.? Kevin Robinson from Gyrocopter Experience Algarve has been an instructor with gyrocopter experience for five years and has taken up this mantel.? He has been involved in training in UK, Portugal, Turkey and latterly Africa.? Kevin?s latest trip was to the Masai Mara in Kenya.? He takes up the story.

?Another dawn broke rapidly in this equatorial area, the weather looked clear and with the anticipated high temperatures and high operating attitudes, (ground level 6500ft) we headed off towards our Bush airstrip.? We bounced along the unmade track to be greeted by the freshly eaten carcass of a local cow.? This is a significant event as the local tribesman the Masai are cattle herders and their cattle are a symbol of their wealth.? The taking of a cow by Lion could easily result in a revenge attack on the lion damaging the precarious infrastructure between game and cattle. My student for the day Calvin Cottar, the local lodge owner, would need to act quickly to placate the local tribesman.

with a 100% success rate. I have been to Africa 10 times and I have never had a problem. I have been to Africa 10 times and I have never had a problem.

with a 100% success rate. I have been to Africa 10 times and I have never had a problem. I have been to Africa 10 times and I have never had a problem.